“ Still can't believe your gone, my life has been a train wreck these past few years... I can't help but wonder if it had been different with you here. I met someone who finally took the pain and turned it to happiness, but in the end she was pulled away from me too, like you I can't see her when I want, I can't hug her when I want, she came to me like an answered prayer and I lost her. Im saying this because I feel like in weird way this reaches you, like maybe u can see and read what im writing. In regards to that I hope maybe you can help me get her back somehow.... I miss u dad and love u so much...##imported-begin##justin perry##imported-end##

“ I feel so sorry for everyone in the family and for all the people who knew and loved Gary. I kept waiting to post a message hoping comforting and strengthening words would come to me. However, what I do know, is that "Garry Perry" always treated my family and myself as one of his own family members. Gary played with my son, he attended our wedding, was at our house to help fix our garage door, helped us with working on floats, conventions, parties and charity events. He was always smiling and laughing. I knew when ever I saw him, where ever I was, I could go stand next to him, and find a kind and gentle, geniune person who would help anyway he could. I love his family and am so sorry for each one of you. I am here if any of you need me. God Bless.##imported-begin##Angela DiMartino##imported-end##

“ Just thinking of Gary brings a smile to our faces because he always had that little grin or was saying or doing something goofy. He will be greatly missed, but we know the memories of that grin of his and his sweet personality will live on in all who knew him. He and all of the family are in our prayers and in our hearts.##imported-begin##Danielle and Brian Gerstenberger##imported-end##

“ Dear Lisa, Curt & Lisa; Jessica and all those who loved Gary. Please know all of you are in our prayers. May God's love hold you through this very painful and hurting time.

God's promises say, One day all things will be made plain..for now, rest in comfort that God hears the tears when they fall; and He will one day wipe every one away with His own hand of love.

“ I recently had the privilege of meeting Gary through his daughter Jessica. Gary helped repair my garage door. In the short time that I spent talking to him, I felt like I knew him for 10 years. Gary seemed to be the type of person to do anything for a friend or family. He was a wonderful person. Our thoughts and prayers go out to the family. “ Gary was such a great guy, always so nice and easy going. It is so sad to see this day, I can't really figure out if anything would be the right thing to say or not. But you guys (The family) are all like family to me and I hope to God you're all doing the best that could possibly be expected.##imported-begin##James Visger##imported-end##

“ I will always remember how proud he was of his children. The one memory that pops out most is his taking Justing to Battle Creek in 2001 and hanging on to him after the win....I know that he'll be watching over all his loved ones = he's just that type of guy. He'll hold and protect Ava somehow, someway.##imported-begin##Nadeen Casey##imported-end##

“ For those who knew Gary, they knew him as a terrific man who was easy going and always had something to say. I was only in his life just shy of 5 years, but he bestowed so much love to me. He would ask how specific things were going in my life that showed me how much he cared. He was Laila's papa and she was crazy about him and she was his little stinky. And not only was he a father figure to Curt, but a best friend as well. I will miss those moments of hanging out and feeling the warm hugs he always had. An amazing man he was and will forever be missed in our lives. I love you, we all do, and will "hold you tight" as Laila would say, in our hearts forever.###imported-begin##Lisa Brown###imported-end##
